1.4. As Per Need of Different Groups of Students

The institution adopts a student-centric approach by addressing the diverse academic needs and learning levels of different groups of students. Remedial classes are organized to support students who require additional academic assistance in specific subjects. These classes are designed to strengthen foundational concepts, enhance subject-related skills, and improve overall academic performance.

The primary objective of remedial teaching is to bridge the gap between students' existing academic competencies and the expected learning outcomes of the courses they have opted for. Faculty members identify learners who need support through continuous assessment, classroom interactions, and performance analysis, and tailor the remedial sessions accordingly.

In addition to remedial instruction, the institution provides career counseling and academic guidance to help students make informed decisions regarding their academic pathways and long-term career goals. Students are guided in selecting appropriate courses, understanding career opportunities, and developing essential skills such as time management, study techniques, organization, and goal setting.

Through these focused interventions, the institution ensures inclusive learning, promotes academic confidence, and supports the holistic development of students belonging to different learning groups.
